Rains cause landslip at Chamundi Hill again

▶ Retaining wall near Nandi Statue caves in ▶ Repair works to begin tomorrow, says DC ▶ Vulnerable spots atop Hill to be surveyed

The road atop Chamundi Hill that caved in last night. Picture right shows the road barricaded this morning to prevent motorists from taking that route.

Mysuru, Oct. 21 (RK&BCT)- Two years after a major landslide was reported atop the Chamundi Hill near the Nandi Statue, one more landslide close to the same area last night has spread panic among residents, commuters and devotees. Along with the slid land, a portion of the road too has collapsed indicating weak earth in that area.

Due to heavy rains that have been lashing on Mysuru since the last fortnight or so, soil had become loose resulting in the collapse of the retaining wall. The latest place where the landslip occurred is near the illuminated 'Welcome' erected for Dasara, a few metres from the place where the 2019 landslide had occurred.

In fact, in 2019, the land came crashing down on Oct. 22 and later, a retaining wall was constructed at a cost of Rs. 49 lakh and no tenders were called for the work as it fell under "emergency works" category. The constructed retaining wall is 35-metre wide and 6-metre high and covers all portion of the land that had caved in.

Ambaari's Dasara illumination tour a hit

Mysuru, Oct. 21 (RK&BCT)- Illuminated streets of Mysuru, photos and videos on social media about the roof-top trips amidst the evening pleasant weather and, of course, the VVIP trip taken atop the bus by Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai and a few of his Cabinet colleagues recently have popularised and given enough publicity to Ambaari, the double-decker hop-on and hop-off bus service.

The bus covers over 35 destinations and tourist landmarks in Mysuru. There is a huge demand for trips beyond 6 pm as the city lights, as part of Dasara festival, are switched on from 6.30 pm to 10 pm daily. The illumination will be on till Oct. 24.

Miscreants pelt stones at Ambaari bus; glass broken

Mysuru, Oct. 21 (RK&BCT)- Last evening, a few miscreants threw stones at one of the Ambaari buses during its routine city rounds near Highway Circle (Moulana Abul Kalam Azad Circle) just before it rained and broke the vehicle's glasses. Fortunately, no tourists or the KSTDC staff were injured.

According to KSTDC Officers, the miscreants were standing by the side of the road and as soon as the bus passed them, they threw stones at the vehicle. A Police complaint will be lodged at Narasimharaja Police Station, they said.

Yesterday, one trip had to be cancelled because of this incident and all other trips came to a standstill due to heavy rains. The damaged bus will be sent for repairs, Officers added.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

The price of a barrel of the Indian basket of crude oil breached the 80 dollar mark this week. It's risen by about 60 percent since June, when mobility began to increase after the second wave. The retail pump price of petrol has gone past Rs. 100/litre mark, partly on account of rising crude price. The real hit however has come from the unusually high level of taxes. Fuel taxes have been an easy option for Governments to shore up revenue during the pandemic. This dependence on fuel taxes makes Governments reluctant to lower them even when the economy's aggregate demand is weak. The defence of high fuel taxes is that it goes into Government spending on public goods. It's an unconvincing reason. Fiscal policy is about designing a tax and spending package to influence economic growth. There are a multitude of taxes, and their rates should be in sync with the prevailing economic context.

In a country where over 80 of 100 passenger vehicles sold are entry level two-wheelers, high fuel taxes can only squeeze them further in an already difficult situation. In volume terms, fuel consumption is relatively inelastic. Extra revenue from fuel taxes comes partly at the cost of GST as spending elsewhere has to be reined in. High fuel taxes in the current context have adverse distributional effects. The Government should take the lead and cut its excise duty. Some States have already shown the way.

Man had cell phone in his stomach for 6 months

Aswan: An Egyptian man had to undergo emergency surgery to have a mobile phone that he had swallowed six months ago removed from his stomach.

In a first-of-its-kind case in Egypt, doctors at the Aswan University Hospital in the city of Aswan performed an operation to remove a small mobile phone that had been inside a man's intestines for half a year. The patient, an inmate named Mohamed Ismail Mohamed, was brought to the emergency room with severe abdominal pain and a CT scan revealed that there was a foreign body in his intestines. The man was prepped for surgery and doctors managed to remove the object which turned out to be a small mobile phone wrapped in plastic foil.

The patient, who is stable now and eating normally, confirmed that he had swallowed the cell phone six months before, as he had done in the past, only this time around it never came out the other end...

Caterpillar wears moulted heads as multi-tiered hat

Auckland: The caterpillar of the Uraba lugens moth is deserve the nickname 'Mad Hatterpillar,' as it stacks the heads of its molted exoskeletons into an intriguing headpiece.

The Uraba lugens caterpillar molds up to 13 times while in its caterpillar phase, but it doesn't shed all of its previous body parts. It uses some of the empty shells that once housed its head to create a rather impressive tower-shaped headpiece. As the caterpillar grows, so does its head, so each of the empty shells on top of its head is bigger than the next.

Every time it molds, the head portion of its exoskeleton stays attached to its body, giving the critter a unique look as well as a handy decoy in the case of an attack.

Illegal and haphazard

petty shops on Mahadevapura-Rammanahalli Main Road

Sir,

I would like to draw the attention of the authorities concerned towards the illegal encroachment of public property along the busy Mahadevapura-Rammanahalli Main Road.

The roads have become narrower due to the extension of the shops onto the pavement by the shopkeepers.

Vendors put their stalls on the pavement and on the side of the streets, thus making it impossible for the pedestrians to walk on the streets.

Many people like me fear to take these roads, which are already narrow and have regular movement of vehicles, especially speeding buses. This stretch, with petty shops galore and heavy traffic, may soon become accident-prone, if the authorities fail to take timely action.

Besides, the overflowing garbage bin near St. Arnold Central School is emanating foul smell and it has become difficult to pass by that way.

I appeal to the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) Commissioner to look into the matter and take strict action against the encroachers on the Main Road.

Gita Gopinath to leave IMF in January 2022

Washington, Oct. 21 (Agencies)- International Monetary Fund (IMF) Chief Economist Gita Gopinath will return to Harvard University in January as planned when her public service leave of absence from the University ends, the IMF said on Tuesday.

She had joined the Fund in October 2018 and led new IMF analytical research on COVID pandemic and vaccination targets as well as on climate change mitigation.

Mysuru-born Gita Gopinath is the first woman to occupy the top IMF post. Her parents T.V. Gopinath and V.C. Vijayalakshmi, both from Kerala, currently reside in Mysuru.

She was the John Zwaanstra Professor of International Studies and Economics at Harvard University when she joined the Washington-based global lender. IMF Managing Director Kristalina Georgieva cited Gita's "tremendous" impact on the IMF's work.

Gita Gopinath

"She made history as the first female Chief Economist of the Fund and we benefited immensely from her sharp intellect and deep knowledge of international finance and macroeconomics as we navigated through the worst economic crisis since the Great Depression.

"Gita also won the respect and admiration of colleagues in the research department, across the Fund, and throughout the membership for leading analytically rigorous work and policy-relevant projects with high impact and influence," Georgieva said.

Gita won praise for drafting a 50 billion dollar proposal on ending the pandemic by vaccinating at least 40 percent of the population in all countries by the end of 2021, a plan later endorsed by the World Bank, the World Trade Organisation and the World Health Organisation.

Gita helped set up a climate change team inside the IMF to analyse, among other things, optimal climate mitigation policies. Later, in a tweet, Gita Gopinath thanked her colleagues for making her stint at the IMF truly gratifying.

Her leave from Harvard, already extended by one year, was ending, and her family had remained in Boston. She will remain at the IMF to oversee the release of the Fund's next World Economic Outlook forecasts in January.

Heavy rains predicted in Mysuru today also

Normal life, traffic, power supply disrupted, roads turn into rivers, trees uprooted in yesterday's downpour

Mysuru, Oct. 21 (SPN,MK&KS)- Heavy downpour not only disrupted normal life in city yesterday evening but also disrupted traffic and power supply leaving tourists, who had come to city to view Dasara illumination, a disappointed lot. Giving small breaks, the rain continued to pour till late night.

Rains, which had given break for two days, began to pour at about 6.30 pm causing people, most of them returning homes from work, to take shelter in bus stands, petrol bunks, hotels, big buildings, under the bridges etc. Even those driving four-wheelers, had to stop on roadsides and switch on the hazard indicator lights to warn others due to poor visibility following heavy downpour.

Roads turn into rivers: The intensity of the rain which increased gradually turned roads into rivers, flooded houses and other buildings in low-lying areas besides making drains and even storm water drains to overflow. Devaraj Urs Road, Sayyaji Rao Road, JLB Road, Mahadevapura Road, Adichunchanagiri Road, Chamaraja Double Road, New Kantharaj Urs Road, MG Road and roads in Bannimantap, Kuvempunagar, Ramakrishnanagar, Siddarthanagar, Allanahalli, Udayagiri, Saraswathipuram, Agrahara, Gangothri Layout, Bogadi 2nd Stage, Vijayanagar, Paduvarahalli, Kumbarakoppal and other localities were flooded and water was flowing in full force resembling overflowing streams. This caused a lot of inconvenience to two-wheeler riders and pedestrians, who were completely drenched.

Houses flooded, trees uprooted: More than 50 houses in low-lying areas such as 6th and 7th Cross in Janata Nagar, near Saalumarada Thimmakka Park in Dattagalli, Gangotri Layout, behind Basaveshwara Kalyana Mantap in Paduvarahalli, Ghousianagar etc. were flooded with rain water and the residents had a tough time removing water from their houses.

Mysuru City Corporation's (MCC's) Abhaya team members Manju, Shivu, Ravichandra, Nagendra and others, who rushed to the above places, helped the residents to remove rain water from houses.

Huge trees near DC Office and on Maharaja's College Grounds were uprooted and the MCC staff was seen clearing the trees and fallen branches this morning.

Tourists disappointed: Tourists, who had come to city from other places just to view Dasara illumination on various city roads, were a disappointed lot as heavy rains began to lash across the city about 6.30 pm disrupting the visibility. Also, CESC officials as a precautionary measure switched off power supply at some places. LED light illumination on a few roads was also cut off.

Agricultural fields flooded: Meanwhile, farmers of Hallikeri Hundi, Varuna hobli in the taluk, who called SOM Office this morning, said that the agricultural fields belonging to Govindu, Kuntegowda and Narayana were flooded and resembled a lake following heavy rains yesterday.

They said that their fields get inundated with rain water every time when there is heavy rains destroying crops and causing loss in revenue. They said that they take loans from banks for cultivation and following rains causing losses, they have to pledge valuables to repay the loans.

Heavy rains to continue today too: Meanwhile, sources at Karnataka State Natural Disaster Monitoring Centre, Bengaluru, said that Mysuru city had recorded 10 cm rain yesterday and added that heavy rains would continue today in Mysuru district and surrounding places.

Agricultural fields flooded at Hallikeri Hundi in Varuna hobli of Mysuru.

Police Martyrs Day observed in city

Principal District and Sessions Court Judge M.L. Raghunath walks to place a wreath on the Police Memorial at the Police Martyrs Memorial Park in city this morning on the occasion of Police Martyrs Day. Picture right shows Volley Firing by Police personnel as a mark of respect to the martyred souls.

Mysuru, Oct. 21 (RK&BNR)- "Criminals find ways to escape punishment due to lapses in the procedure. You should investigate well, file charge-sheet and take proper measures by collecting all evidences so that criminals are brought to book. Only then your efforts will bear fruit," said Principal District and Sessions Court Judge M.L. Raghunath.

He was speaking after receiving the Guard of Honour at the Police Martyrs Day observed by the District and City Police, along with Karnataka State Reserve Police (KSRP) and Karnataka Armed Reserve Police (KARP) where Police personnel, who lost their lives while on duty, were remembered and paid tribute at the Police Martyrs Park located close to the SP's office in Nazarbad here this morning.

Oct. 21 is observed as Police Martyrs' Day (or Police Commemoration Day) by Police Departments nationwide as on this date in 1959, a Central Reserve Police Force patrol at the Indo-Tibetan border in Ladakh was ambushed by Chinese forces, as part of the ongoing Sino-Indian border dispute.

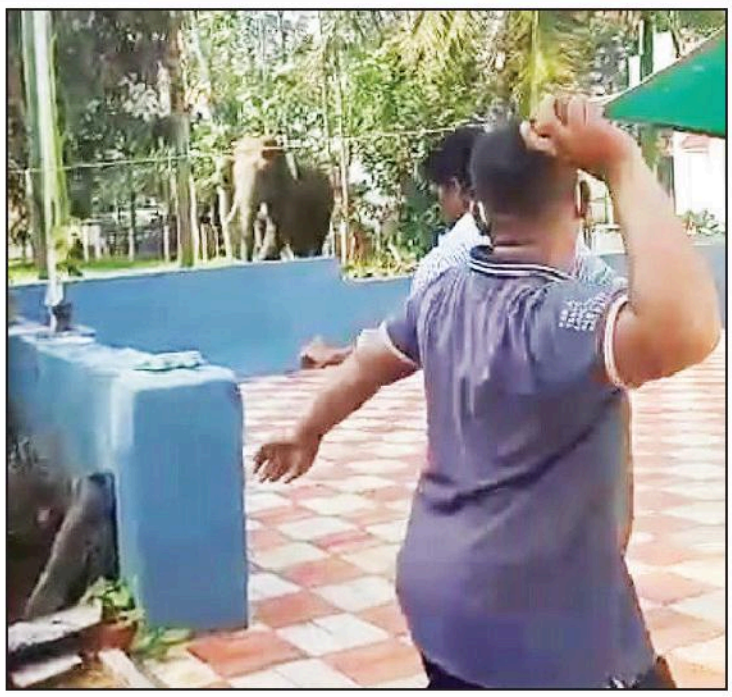
"Freedom fighters including Mahatma Gandhi, Bhagat Singh, Jansirani Lakshmi Bai and Lala Lajpat Rai are paid tribute for their contributions in freedom struggle of the country. Likewise, Police personnel should be honoured for their work of maintaining peace and letting citizens enjoy that freedom and live in harmony. It's a good development that Cops are remembered and honoured by observing Police Martyrs Day," Raghunath said. Talking further, he said that while soldiers at the borders fight outside enemies, Police work for internal security and deal with inside enemies 24x7. Hence, they too are honoured this way, he added.

The Principal District & Sessions Court Judge, Karnataka Police Academy (KPA) Director Vipul Kumar, Inspector General of Police (Southern Range) Praveen Madhukar Pawar, City Police Commissioner Dr. Chandragupta, Superintendent of Police (SP) R. Chethan, KPA Dy. Director Dr. Suman D. Pennekar (now transferred as SP, Mandya), Police Training School-Mysuru Principal Dr. Dharanidevi Malagathi, Anti-Corruption Bureau (ACB) SP P. Arunamshugiri, Deputy Commissioner of Police (Law & Order) Pradeep Gunti, in-service and retired Police personnel, widows of martyred Police, Mysuru District Journalists Association President S.T. Ravikumar (RK) as a media representative, Dr. Ramesh of Vontikoppal representing citizens, Mysuru City Corporation Assistant Commissioner Nagaraju on behalf of officials, placed wreaths at the Memorial in the Police Martyrs Park.

Later, Volley Firing was done followed by the observation of two-minute silence. SP Chethan read out the names of 377 Police personnel who have died while on duty across the nation this year, which included 16 from Karnataka.

Villagers shout, throw stones to chase wild tusker at Hunsur

Hunsur, Oct. 21 (Raghu & BCT)- Fed up by the constant inaction by the Forest Department despite many appeals and damages to crops, the residents of Tibetan Colony at Hunsur drove away a marauding wild elephant that had entered their habitat. Using shouting crowds and stones as weapons, the villagers chased the elephant from the plantations.



A wild tusker entered into the Tibetan settlement from the Nagarahole National Park from Sollepura area under Veeranahosahalli Range and has been camping deep inside banana and jowar plantations since the last two days.

The tusker had already destroyed most of the plantation and went on a rampage as it saw people around. Villagers alerted the Forest Department but none of the officers and staff bothered to visit the area while men and women stayed indoors fearing an attack. Many did not even go to markets and schools out of fear.

Today morning, the elephant was spotted eating crops near a wooded area and villagers gathered to drive it back to the jungle. They formed groups and began shouting and pelting stones at the tusker. The pachyderm was driven to the forest through Hosa Penjalli area of the Tibetan camp.

But soon after, planting itself amidst a jowar plantation, the tusker was feeding on the standing crop and as the villagers entered the area, it charged at them and entered the camp area. Villagers shouted and threw stones at the tusker and it then entered a shrubby area.

As soon as the Forest Department got to know about the elephant chase operation by the villagers, they rushed to the spot and took over the task of driving the tusker back into the woods.

Farmers said that they are suffering from huge losses due to elephants destroying their crops every other day. They alleged that the Forest Department has failed to drive the elephants that have stayed put at many places.

Mainly these elephants come from the Veeranahosahalli Range, fringes of forests from Mahadeshwara Colony and Kunteri where Hunsur borders with H.D. Kote. The villagers have urged the Forest Department to post guards at these places to ward off elephant entry.

They have urged Hunsur MLA H.P. Manjunath to take steps to control the menace and provide adequate compensation to farmers who have lost their crops.

Camera traps set to track injured tiger

Mysuru, Oct. 21- A tiger aged seven or eight years was injured in a territorial fight at Bandipur Tiger Reserve on Wednesday. It has a big mauling wound on its back and was spotted by rangers on routine beat at Ganjikatte.

Following this, Forest Department staffs have arranged round-the-clock monitoring involving the foot staff with the help of camera traps. With injuries, the tiger is unable to hunt.

"We have started continuous monitoring of the big cat to ensure that the animal gets extra care as per National Tiger Conservation Authority (NTCA) norms," a press release by ACF Gundlupet said.

The tiger has been identified and many camera traps are set to track the movements.

Hemantha Kumar said that the construction of the new building of Journalism Department in Manasagangothri campus will be completed soon.

He was speaking after inaugurating the Centenary celebration of Prof. Nadig Krishnamurthy jointly organised by UoM, Karnataka Media Academy (KMA) and Mysuru District Journalists Association (MDJA) at Vijnana Bhavan in Manasagangothri campus here this morning.

Pointing out that the programme is a befitting tribute to Prof. Nadig, the VC said that Prof. Nadig is rightly called as the 'Bheeshma' of Indian Journalism.

Recalling the efforts made by Prof. Nadig in setting up the Journalism Department when Prof. D.Javaregowda (Dejagow) was the VC over fifty years ago, he said that the thesis submitted by Prof.Nadig for his Ph.D degree, wherein he has chronicled the growth of Journalism in the country, still stands as a reference document.

Underlining the role of Prof. Nadig in documenting the landmarks of Indian Journalism in English and all other Regional languages, he said that the UoM's Prasaranga has done a wonderful job in publishing this work. However, the book needs to be updated in keeping with the present days and the UoM was ready to co-operate with any scholar who comes forward for its re-publication.

Contending that Prof. Nadig was a multi-talented personality who was also a freedom fighter in his younger days, Prof. Hemantha Kumar highlighted the role of Nadig in the creation of Media Academy (now called as Karnataka Media Academy) as its Founder-Chairman.

Prof. Hemantha Kumar also recalled the role of Prof. K.V. Nagaraj, who was mentored by Prof. Nadig, in taking forward UoM's Journalism Department. He suggested the Journalism Department to avail the services of Prof. Nagaraj, who has settled down in Mysuru, after serving in different capacities at various places across the country.

He complimented Media Academy and Journalists Association for joining hands in the celebration.

Recalling how UoM became one of the first Universities in the country to have a Post-Graduate Computer Science Department, Prof. Hemantha Kumar said that when Rajiv Gandhi was the Prime Minister in mid-1980s, Dr.Arunachalam, the then Defence Secretary, who also happened to be a native of Mysuru, recommended Rajiv Gandhi for setting up Computer Science Department in three Universities each in South India and North India in order to meet the growing demand for scientists in the Defence sector. Heeding to the recommendation, the Rajiv Gandhi Government sanctioned Rs.2 crore in 1986 for the purpose, following which the Post-Graduate Computer Science Department came up in UoM, among the three sanctioned South Indian Universities. He also disclosed that he himself was a first batch student of the PG course.

MDJA President S.T. Ravikumar, in his address, observed that there is a lot of difference in what Journalism students learn in Universities and the practical nature of Journalism, which involves a lot of field work. As such, there is a need for Journalism Institutions to join hands with MDJA and KMA, for imparting real-time training and practical skills to students, for which MDJA was ready, he noted.

Underlining the contributions of Prof. Nadig Krishnamurthy, Ravikumar opined that Nadig has taken the dignity of the Academy to the highest levels in the country.

Prof. Nadig Krishnamurthy's daughters Dr. Vijayalakshmi Sudhakar and Krupa Nadig were felicitated on the occasion.

Prof. K.V. Nagaraj, former Pro-Vice-Chancellor of Central University at Silchar, Assam, delivered a special lecture on the topic 'Prof. Nadig's Memories and the way forward for Media Education.'

KMA, Bengaluru, Chairman K. Sadashiva Shenoy presided.

Head of UoM Journalism Department Prof. Niranjan Vanalli, KMA Secretary C.Roopa, members Koodli Gururaj and C.K. Mahendra, MDJA General Secretary M. Subramanya and others were present at the event.

All those who dread to drive during nights amidst bumper-to-bumper traffic on city roads to see the illumination and all those who dare not to walk on pothole-filled roads and on broken footpaths prefer a hassle-free ride in the Ambaari.

From Oct. 7 till Oct. 20, over 4,045 people have taken the bus ride and each ticket costs Rs. 250. The Karnataka State Tourism Development Corporation (KSTDC) that runs the service is upbeat after garnering Rs. 10,11,250 and the officers are expecting a windfall till Oct. 24 and also later as the bus service has become famous.

Avoiding traffic snarls

The bus service has also become popular among other tourists who are coming in droves from faraway places. Those who are not familiar with Mysuru roads and those who are bogged down by the one-way rule imposed by the city Police — and the resultant perennial traffic jams — are opting for Ambaari service.

Every day, tickets are sold out by 9 am and display boards are put up in front of the KSTDC Office on JLB Road about sold out tickets. There is a huge demand for roof-top seats in the evenings. The KSTDC had launched the service after many delays and postponements and initially only one bus was brought onto the roads. But now, there are six Ambaaris that are ferrying people from the KSTDC Office on JLB Road around the city and back to the starting point. Tourists will also get an audio guide when the bus reaches the tourist sites identified on the route.

So high is the demand for evening trips that those who did not manage to get a seat are still buying tickets for a trip standing on the rooftop space. For the tourists — taking an open rooftop trip in a pleasant evening breeze — the ride is special as they are travelling under the serial lights while passing through illuminated landmarks.

The 2019 landslide was measured as 50 ft. in length and 22 ft. deep. Though the latest data of the present landslide is not available as of now as the officials are busy clearing the mud and measuring the damaged area, the State Government has ordered immediate repairs that will start from tomorrow.

The landslide occurred last night and yesterday itself, the District Administration and the Police got into action and barricaded the stretch. The road between View Point and Nandi Statue has been closed for vehicular traffic. Vehicles have been asked to take regular route to reach Sri Chamundeshwari Temple and alternative Road to Nandi Statue.

In a communiqué to the Deputy Commissioner Dr. Bagadi Gautham, Mysuru District Minister S.T. Somashekar has asked him to take immediate measures for repairs and close the traffic to prevent loss of life. The Administration has been directed to complete the works on a war footing to make way for devotees and tourists.

This morning, the DC, Zilla Panchayat CEO A.M. Yogesh, Public Works Department (PWD) Executive Engineer Harsha, Assistant Executive Engineer Raju and Siddhartha Traffic Inspector Raju visited the spot and took stock of the situation.

Asking the PWD to clear the rubble and begin work immediately, the DC has asked them to survey the entire Hill to identify other vulnerable spots before it collapses causing losses to lives and limbs. Harsha told Star of Mysore that works will be taken up from tomorrow and like in 2019, tenders will not be called as it falls under the emergency category.

"We cannot see the actual damage as the area is steep and also the mud needs to be cleared. We have already started the ground work and vehicles have been banned as the pressure on the road will lead to more damage. Once the preliminary work is done, an estimate will be made to construct a concrete retaining wall in a scientific manner and in consultation with geologists and soil experts like in 2019," he added.

DECODING MYTHOLOGY

Dr. Devdutt Pattanaik - Author, Speaker, Illustrator, Mythologist

The Festival Of Women, By Women, For Women

The word 'teej' refers to the third day of the lunar cycle when women fast, stay awake in all night vigils, hoping to find good husbands if not married, and praying for the health of husbands if married. Hariyali Teej is celebrated during the waxing moon of Shravan, Kajari Teej during the waning moon of Shravan and Hartalika Teej on the waxing moon of Bhadrapad. These three consecutive teejs are celebrated especially in Punjab, Haryana and the Hindi-speaking belt, during the monsoons.

Teej is essentially a women's celebration. Women dress in bright red clothes and bangles. They anoint their hands and feet with red dye (alta) and mehendi. They sing and dance. It is said this ritual was performed by Parvati herself. By fasting, she transformed Shiva, the hermit into a householder and together they became the perfect, cosmic couple.

Similar festivals, linked to Parvati and Shiva, are found in other parts of India where a woman prays for her husband and household. These festivals include Mangala Gauri in Maharashtra and Thiruvathira, in Tamil Nadu and Kerala, and Gangaur in Rajasthan. There is Savitri Puja and Karwa Chauth also performed by women for husbands and households.

Some people accuse these festivals of being patriarchal and reinforcing gender stereotypes. They complain how Hindus expect wives to fast for men. But such interpretations ignore the fact that such gender rules exist in all religions. In the Sikh religion, despite all talk of equality, the kirtans in the Gurudwara are always sung by men, not women. In Catholic circles, women cannot be priests.

Hindu festivals like Teej pay attention to womanhood, her role as home-maker and her need for marital bliss. Such rituals are conspicuous by their absence in monotheistic religions, where priority is on God. God of Abraham is transcendental — outside creation, with little interest in female energy.

Western humanism does pay attention to women, but mostly as victims, deprived of rights by men, or as those who need to be equal to men. They focus more on women as individuals and less on their gender. In recent times, some gender theorists seek to annihilate gender framework which they argue is merely an oppressive social construct, like religion and caste.

Those who celebrate 'men who menstruate' and 'women who don't have a womb', those who fight for gender fluidity and queer identities, often go to the extreme of shaming women who enjoy their femininity, arguing they indulge male gaze, hence patriarchy.

It has not been easy for women. Monastic orders like Buddhism and Jainism saw women as embodiments of temptations, obstacles to spiritual growth. The same belief exists in Nath-Jogi traditions and in many Hindu Bhakti movements. That is why in Brahmin temple rituals, we find men performing all rites: bathing and adorning and feeding the Gods, performing all roles women perform at home. Women are thus ritually marginalised, standing behind, serving as assistants. But not during Teej — when the woman is in centrestage. The festival is not about a distant God or about men; it is about her, her desires and her household.

Mysuru Literature Festival 2021

Audience get a double treat of short stories

Stories are everywhere, we need specific eyes to see them, says celebrated author Vasudhendra

Mysuru, Oct. 21 (BCT)- The third panel discussion of the second virtual edition of the fifth Mysuru Literature festival had a double treat to audience in the form of two panel discussions with celebrated Kannada author Vasudhendra, hailed as the next Masti Venkatesh Iyengar, being a panellist in one of the sessions.

The session 'The Unforgiving City and Other Stories' began after Chairperson of Mysuru Literary Forum and Charitable Trust Shubha Sanjay Urs welcomed and introduced moderator Mysuru Nataraja. Trustee Sucheta Sanjay introduced Vasudhendra.

Mysuru Nataraja began by explaining his attraction towards Mysuru as he carries the name of the city along with his name. Vasudhendra played a short video clip to introduce his novel's English version. The video graphically represented how modernity could be a technical trap for human minds.

STORY PLOT IN MIND

Nataraja asked Vasudhendra about the process by which the story plot develops in his mind. Vasudhendra acknowledged that the stories are small experiences spread out over time, somewhat like the dots of a rangoli and each dot could carry an emotion like one of the Navarasas. With a set of dots, the human mind can develop an infinite number of stories. And the same set of dots given to different people can design themselves into different stories.

He quoted A.K. Ramanujan who said, "Stories are everywhere, we need specific eyes to see them." Vasudhendra gave an example of how he had gone three times to trek the Thadiyandamol peak in Kodagu and had stayed in the base camp which is an old and palatial building. Later when he was reading Masti Venkatesh Iyengar's Jnanpith award-winning novel 'Chikkaveera Rajendra', he learnt that Masti had visited that same building which was actually the Palace of that king and hence he had been inspired to write that story.

Talking about this particular book of his, Vasudhendra said that the stories in this book were outside the LGBT world and it has everyday stories of everyday people like Kashavva and Varadayya. He also reiterated that more than ordinary personalities it is always a tougher challenge to develop historical characters.

A formal education is not obligatory to create wonderful stories, he emphasised, by pointing out that most of the fascinating stories spring out of illiterate people as stunning folklore. But the logic should sustain throughout the narrative and for that he gave the example of one of the most flamboyant characters of Ramayana, that of Hanumantha who sustains a literary logic till the end, in the long narrative.

ON TRANSLATION

Vasudhendra asked Mysuru Nataraja about the art and techniques of translations where Nataraja pointed out that translation of any literary work is actually a "transcreation" that is, it is an art where being loyal to the original work, the translator also should make the book reach the target readers by making a smooth transition from one language and culture to the other. The process sometimes involves cleaning up a bit by removing confusing details.

Vasudhendra appreciated the translation work and noted that the translation work is much more energy-consuming than the original creation. Both the panellists regretted that the number of young Kannada readers is dwindling and they hoped that the Government and the publishing houses support and encourage translations of Kannada literature so that people from other parts of our country and also those from all around the world will be able to enjoy the treasures of Kannada literature.

Daily events, people in buses, trains inspire stories

A light-hearted, informal and friendly conversation was in store for the viewers on the second panel for the day with Gopakumar, the author of the book '14 Stories and One Rogue' and C.R. Hanumanth, Trustee of Mysuru Literary Forum Charitable Trust, as the moderator.

Trust Chairperson Shubha Sanjay Urs began by asking the author about the interesting name of his book and why had he chosen such a title. Answering in his characteristic witty way, he said that after writing 14 stories he was not happy with the number and wanted to make it 15 because of some unexplained "obsessive mathematical disorder" of his and he added with a chuckle that he included an inebriated rogue to the bunch, the picture of which could be seen on the back cover page of the book.

The conversation flowed smoothly and for a question from Hanumanth about what inspires him to write stories, Gopakumar answered that regular every day events and people in buses and trains who tell wonderful stories are majorly responsible to initiate a thought in his mind which eventually will grow and become a story.

Answering a question in the negative if he follows a writing regime, he laughed at himself saying that he faces writer's block so much that he has half a mind to call his house as a Writer's Block since he resides in that zone for such long periods.

He paid a huge tribute to novelists as writing novels requires a competence of a higher order. He took the names of authors who have influenced him — R.K. Narayan, Jeffry Archer, P.G. Wodehouse, Roald Dahl, Somerset Maugham, Bill Bryson and many others.

He informed that in this collection, there are two stories based on wildlife and he also said that he has written a story for children involving conservation of otters which is his pet project. The money from the sales of his book goes to "Rang de", which does a lot of work in choosing small farmers and give them interest-free loans. He believes that their work has a good impact on the lives of the needy.

About his biggest regret and his happiest moment, Gopakumar answered that he wished he had studied biology and also his happiest moments were when he undertakes treks among the pristine and rugged beauty of the Himalayas.

WORD OF THE DAY

Loll

Pronunciation: LAHL.
Meaning: To droop or hang loosely. It can also mean "to act or move in a relaxed or lazy manner."
Origin: Loll has origins similar to another soothing verb, lull, which means "to cause to rest or sleep." Both probably originated as imitations of the soft sounds people make when resting or trying to soothe someone else to sleep. Loll shares synonyms with a number of l verbs, including loaf, lounge, and laze.
Example: "Curiously, while the seals loll on the sand for a month, their metabolic capacity does not decrease." — Veronique Greenwood, The New York Times, 8 July 2021.

THE ODD WORD

Ladronism

Banditry; robbery.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Let sleeping dogs lie

Meaning: To warn against stirring up trouble; To ignore a problem because trying to deal with it could cause an even more difficult situation; Avoid interfering in a situation that is currently causing no problems but may well do so as a result of such interference.
Origin: The expression 'let sleeping dogs lie' was a popular proverb by the 13th century, alluding to waking up a fierce watchdog and causing trouble.
Example: "It's best to keep your opinion to yourself around him. Just let sleeping dogs lie."

QUOTE BOX

The dog is a gentleman; I hope to go to his heaven not man's."

— Mark Twain
